LIVE ART AS AN “ART DE VIVRE”

Since 1986, we have developed our expertise in a very special field: cultural tourism.

Our initial ambition is to live art as an « art de vivre », to lead participants by their hand on our trips and tell them a story: the story of a place, its population, its architecture and its culture in the broadest sense.

Our team of professionals works on demand, adapting and creating tours and tailor-made programs.

Cultural tourism, special events and incentives, marketing and communication to be integrated in your seminar or congress: from the guided tour to your cultural event, Itinéraires answers promptly in (almost) every language. Each proposal is adaptable to your wishes and the reality of your timing and objective.

Art Déco in the City Center

The city centre leads us to the sumptuous Waucquez and Wolfers brothers' shops. Now respectfully the Belgian Comic Strip Centre and a toy shop, they are the only remaining shops left from the time of their construction. Horta was a fertile artist who always sought innovation and renewal. After the First World War and his trip to America, Horta gave himself over to a more stripped-down and geometric style, Art Décoratif. The most representative example of this period is the façade of the Bozar. And yes, it is a façade by Horta. Even more surprisingly, it was he who designed the well-known Central Station in our beloved Brussels.

Molenbeek, where Art Déco takes back its place

A neglected district, scorned after the industrial decline that left it battered, Molenbeek has developed some of the most picturesque Art Nouveau and Art Deco buildings. The importance of the Saint Jean-Baptiste church is well established. But who among these multiple-apartment buildings, bourgeois and working-class single-family homes and social housing estates of the interwar period has been able to preserve the stylistic purity of the Art Deco and Modernist spirit? This is what we'll be looking at during our visit to this Brussels commune.
